LIMITED LIFETIME WARRANTY

When choosing the color palette for your new DreamLine cabinets, it is essential to thoughtfully choose the right color, sheen, and door style as these choices will greatly influence the atmosphere and overall look of your new space, especially when coordinated with other key elements within the kitchen, bath and other space. Below are some helpful suggestions to keep in mind during this decision-making process.

WHAT TO CONSIDER

Your True Inspiration

1. Uncover inspiration in your kitchen by tailoring its design and style to reflect your personal touch. It's more than a place for cooking; it's where your lifestyle and taste converge to create a space uniquely yours. The kitchen, often referred to as the home's soul, is where meals are prepared with love, everyone gathers together, and memories are made. Whether drawn to rustic warmth, modern simplicity, or classic elegance, let your kitchen inspire creativity and joy in every dish.

Lighting

2. Always consider the lighting of the area. Lighting is a very important element of any space, especially in a kitchen. Lighting plays a big role in how the cabinets will reflect and bring down in the room, for example, neutral colors bring more light and warmth into the atmosphere of the room. Proper lighting is essential for both functionality and ambiance. Include a mix of task lighting, ambient lighting, and accent lighting to illuminate different areas of the kitchen.

Countertops

3. Sturdy and Attractive Countertops are essential for any new kitchen or bathroom. Many homeowners prefer Quartz and Dekton countertops for their exceptional features. Quartz is recognized for its durability, scratch resistance, stain resistance, and easy upkeep. In contrast, Dekton countertops are highly resilient, resistant to heat and scratches, and require minimal maintenance. If you're thinking about enhancing your countertops, both Quartz and Dekton offer fantastic choices.

Backsplash

4. The kitchen backsplash is a key element in the overall design of your kitchen space. Not only does it serve a functional purpose by protecting the walls from splashes and spills, but it also adds style and personality to the room. When selecting a backsplash design, it is important to consider how it will complement the existing aesthetic of your kitchen. Whether you choose a bold, eye-catching pattern or a sleek, minimalist design, the backsplash should enhance the overall look of the space.

In addition to aesthetics, the ease of cleaning is another crucial factor to consider when choosing a kitchen backsplash.

Hardware

5. Cabinetry hardware knobs and handles play a significant role in both the design and functionality of a space. These seemingly small details can make a big impact on the overall aesthetic of a room, serving as decorative accents that can complement or contrast with the style of the cabinetry. The design of these hardware pieces can influence the overall user experience, as factors like size, shape, and grip can affect convenience and comfort. Therefore, careful consideration of cabinetry hardware design is essential for achieving a cohesive and functional interior design scheme.

Flooring

6. Selecting the appropriate flooring for a kitchen remodel is crucial as it significantly influences the overall aesthetic of the space. The flooring should harmonize with the cabinets and countertops to create a cohesive design. Coordination between flooring, cabinets, and countertops not only enhances visual appeal but also ensures a practical and harmonious kitchen environment, where each element complements and enhances the others.

6 Popular Species of Cabinet Woods

DreamLine Cabinetry embraces diverse wood species, with each imparting unique characteristics and benefits, providing a blend of versatile aesthetics and practical advantages.

In recent years, both interior designers and décor influencers have rejected the trend of concealing natural wood grain in home design. Paint layers have obscured natural finishes, turning everything in homes into variations of white and gray. Although white cabinets remain timeless, modern homeowners are increasingly valuing the inherent warmth that natural wood grain brings to their living spaces.

Walnut

Traditionally seen as a luxury wood, walnut has grown in popularity with homeowners over the past several years. Its rich tones, naturally ranging from deep chocolate brown heartwood to creamy off-white sapwood give a deep, dimensional look to any room. Walnut cabinets are usually finished in a natural finish to emphasize the swirling grain pattern and varying wood colors. Walnut also accepts a medium/dark brown stain, like dawn, to really give it a rich, luxurious feel.

Design Tip - Use walnut as a statement or accent piece to break up a long run of cabinets and make your space more visually captivating.

Rift White Oak

Oak has long been one of the most readily available and popular wood choices for furniture making. However, oak kitchens in 2024 look a bit different than the traditional '90s (or earlier) flair. A modern take on oak appears below, in quarter-sawn oak with a natural finish. Hard wood with open-grain, oak accepts stain well and will darken slightly with age; its grain pattern is very evident when a solid color finish is applied. Oak is a strong and durable hardwood that has a prominent grain pattern and can be stained in various colors.

Birch

Birch is a lighter colored hardwood that is often used as a more affordable alternative to cherry. It has a close, fine, and straight grain, an off-white color, medium density, and fine texture. White birch is a medium hardwood, with similar characteristics as maple. Birch is used as a base for solid color finishes, and accepts stain well. When used on medium to darker stains, birch can produce a unique effect called mottling, which is caused by interlocked grain of varying densities. This can give a "shimmery" look on the finished product.

6 Popular Species of Cabinet Woods

Cherry

Cherry wood cabinets have a rich, warm, reddish-brown hue that can add depth and warmth to a room. Considered a medium hardwood, Cherry has a medium density, fine texture, straight grain. This makes it an attractive choice for a variety of decor styles. Cherry wood cabinets are easy to maintain and resistant to moisture, great for a high-traffic area like a kitchen. Cherry is especially sensitive to light and high levels of natural light can cause the wood to darken or redden significantly, therefore it is typically used with stains that accentuate its natural appearance.

Alder

Alder wood is highly regarded in the realm of cabinetry for its distinct character and versatile qualities. Known for its straight grain and even texture, alder boasts a light tan to reddish-brown hue that beautifully accentuates natural variations in color. This wood often exhibits subtle knots, adding a touch of rustic charm to cabinetry. Its medium density and uniform texture make it easy to work with, allowing for precise craftsmanship. Alder's receptivity to stains and finishes further enhances its adaptability, providing craftsmen the opportunity to achieve a range of desired aesthetics – from a clear, natural look to a deep, rich tone. The inherent durability of alder wood ensures longevity in cabinetry, making it a popular choice for those seeking both aesthetic appeal and functionality in their living spaces.

Maple

When it comes to strength and durability, maple and oak are some of the best kitchen cabinet materials you can have. After all, they're both hardwoods. That being said, maple is a slightly stronger hardwood product than oak. This makes maple an ideal option as one of the strongest and most durable natural wood options available. Maple wood is not only incredibly strong, it looks nice as well as paints and stains beautifully. Woodworkers and homeowners gravitate towards maple for its durability, smooth grain pattern, and light, creamy color.

Painted

Painted finishes combine hardwoods and engineered materials for stability, consistency, and durability, with minimal grain visibility. Joint lines may appear due to the wood's natural expansion and contraction.

Hardwood

Hardwoods include dense-structured maple, oak, birch, cherry, hickory, poplar, and ash. Color ranges from light blonde to dark reddish-brown. Variations of graining, color, and mineral streaks are natural.

Highest Quality of Stain Finishes

Embark on a journey of unrivaled quality with DreamLine's Stain Finishes – a testament to excellence in every hue. Meticulously crafted, our stain finishes redefine the standard for beauty and durability.

Elevate your living spaces with the highest quality and timeless allure that only DreamLine can deliver. Each finish is a work of art, transforming your cabinets into a canvas of sophistication and style.

PITT
COOKING

What is PITT cooking?

Powerful gas burners directly installed onto your countertop.

- An integrated (gas) cooking system.
- Robust cast iron grates
- A range of burners: from simmer to stir fry, low flame to high flame
- Plenty of space between burners
- Suitable for your favorite countertop material
- Safe and certified
- Made by hand in the Netherlands

PITT cooking is a cooking system whereby gas burners are installed directly into the countertop.

Thanks to generous space between burners you will now have enough space for all your pots and pans. With a wide assortment of 20 different models there is something to suit everyone. Or you can combine different configurations to customize your ideal cooking setup.

PITT cooking has earned KIWA GASTEC certification and is therefore safe to install into virtually any countertop.

Model: Danau, Professional Edition

Why choose PITT cooking?

Plenty of space for all your cookware.

Finally enough space for all your pots and pans: with a minimum of 28 centimeters between burners PITT cooking provides an average of 8 centimeters more space between burners when compared with a traditional cooktop.

From now on, you will always have enough room to use all burners at once, even with several large diameter pans.

Model: Cima + Capital, Original Edition

WAIT THAT'S GENIUS

These Integrated Burners Are the Beauty Queens of Cooktops

DESIGN LOVERS, PREPARE TO THANK US

By Lindsey Mather

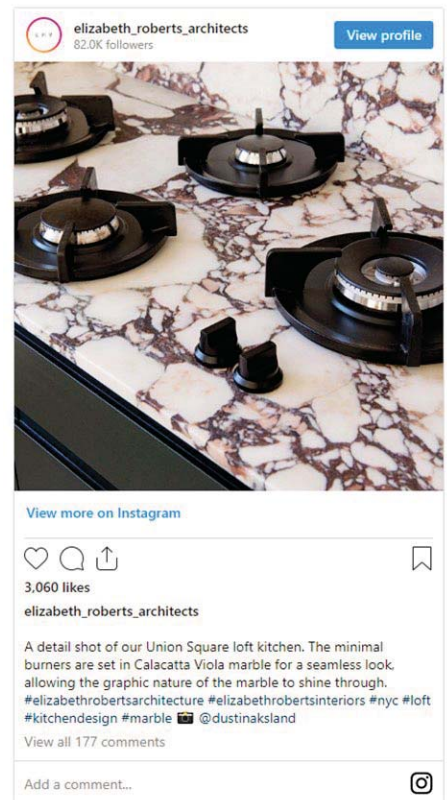

Integrated burners will stand out no more than any other decorative item on your countertops.

No matter how far appliances have come design-wise, they'll still always be bulky boxes of technology breaking up your painstakingly thought out cabinetry. If you fancy yourself a chef, this trade-off is well worth it and exciting new options abound). If you don't, it's kind of a bummer and you feel like you have no choice but to grin and bear it. But that's because you aren't aware of PITT Cooking. The Holland-based company sells an assortment of individual gas burners incorporated into your countertop, with everything else hidden below the surface. Unlike most integrated cooktops, no steel or glass surrounds the burners. It's just a sea of whatever countertop material you've chosen, dotted with one to six inconspicuous gas hobson a.k.a. a design lover's dream.

We spotted PITT Cooking's burners in a New York City loft designed by architect Elizabeth Roberts, so we asked her for the deets. "The client had picked such a beautiful, active marble for the counter, backsplash, and floating shelf in the kitchen, so with the integrated burners we were able to keep a clean, continuous countertop without a break in the marble," she told us. The fact that the counter was marble was key; you want to choose a stone that doesn't stain easily, Elizabeth says. PITT Cooking's site, lists the following materials as good to go: composite, Dekton/porcelain, granite natural stone, concrete, terrazzo, glass, ceramic,, "green core," "top core," and stainless steel. "You just need about four inches clear under the countertop for the technical parts of the cooktop," Elizabeth notes.

The PITT Cooking assortment's minimal impact on your kitchen's design scheme is obviously a major benefit, but not the only one. "With integrated burners, you are not tied to traditional stovetop configurations," Elizabeth says. "You can have everything from a single burner up to six burners, and you can mix-and-match configurations!" FYI, the product product itself actually doesn't end up costing a significant amount more than a standard cooktop, Elizabeth tells us, but the labor to install it will be pricier, so you'll want to factor that into your budget. Now that we've sorted that out, all that's left to do is choose that countertop material . . .

A close up of PITT Cooking's burners.

We had America's Dream HomeWorks design and build custom kitchen cabinets for our kitchen remodel. I can't say enough good things about this company. Our design person, Shota listened to what we wanted and designed a beautiful kitchen for us. The quality of the build was top notch and any concerns or questions I had were quickly address by Yuri who supervises the cabinet shop. Another thing I really liked was how responsive my contact person, Innesa was. She kept me informed with our project and was always there when I had a question or concern. It's important to me to get answers when I need them and Innesa was so efficient and helpful that it made the project go smoothly. Thank you Innesa. And thank you America's Dreamworks!

I could not have been more impressed with this business. We had a very outdated kitchen, and we had Michael visit us in our home to give us an estimate and make some suggestions for design. We then went to the showroom, where we made our final choices. He was very patient and collaborative. The entire team throughout the project was timely, responsible and professional. Everyone had an amazing work ethic, and the result was absolutely beautiful. The entire project stayed on the promised timeline. They will definitely get my business again.

My partner and I looked at several companies to do our kitchen renovations- we settled on America's Dream Homework's. We are so glad we did- the company is great! We started with our Designer, Justin - very personable and knowledgeable! Then started the whole renovation with our Representatives Vlad an Julie- they made the process easy and seamless, they finished our BEAUTIFUL new kitchen in 3 1/2 weeks, we could not be any happier with the service and the project! We would recommend America's Dream Homework's to anyone looking for the best to remodel or create their new kitchen!!!

Amazing! I had a beautiful living room cabinet built and I LOVE it. It's perfect. Exactly as I pictured it.

Osa was the first associate I met. She had great ideas. Innesa was the second and she kept me informed of the progress. Vlad K came to measure and was extremely precise as the cabinet had to fit perfectly against an existing wall. It was made in three sections and Vlad and the team who delivered it had to carry it up stairs to my fourth floor apartment which was most likely the hardest part of the project. Julian and Dima who were overseen by Viktor installed it and now I'm loving it.

I'm so pleased with the results that I am looking forward to the next project. ADH completely renovated a friend's entire home. Kitchen and bathroom, floors, and baseboards included. It's beautiful and she is very happy as well.

I highly recommend ADH for any home improvement project.

At America's Dream Homeworks, it is a one-stop-shop. They take care of everything. The showroom is incredible. There is an assortment of flooring, tiles, quartz slabs, faucets, sinks, tubs and color schemes. They even have specialty items online for you to view with your consultant. ADH orders all the materials, delivers them to your home, takes care of the demolishing, clean up and schedules inspector visits. The customer service was professional and courteous. I would recommend the receptionist dress in business attire, since they are the first impression of this business.

We decided to go with America's Dream Home Works for the remodel of our kitchen. From the initial point of contact to the finish line the service level was FIRST CLASS.

Their quote was not the lowest and not the highest by far. They made every step of the process comfortable—even when we weren't sure how it would look in the end. They reassured us every step of the way.

Their workers were polite, punctual, and they cleaned up each day.

We are very pleased with our new kitchen and receive compliments regularly.

Did I mention they they gave us a discount due to my military service? The only ones to do so.

The transformation was beyond our expectations and the entire staff consummate professionals from the administrative aspect of the business to the design and particularly the craftsmanship. We want to thank you all. The minute we walked in Natalie greeted us warmly and made us feel welcomed. Osa and Alex were instrumental in the design/coordination phase, and Innesa kept us informed, coordinated scheduling, and always kept us in the know about the work progress and expectations. David is the face of the organization and his knowledge second to none. We want to especially give recognition to Victor whose craftsmanship is impeccable and it's easily evident he is passionate about his work and quality of workmanship and to Vitaly who at the end of the project makes sure his customers are completely satisfied and well informed.

We recently had new kitchen counters, sink and backsplash installed. From the get go the experience was exceptional! Our consultation with Mark was so informative, our trip to the showroom was amazing! So many options! Vera was fabulous with our schedule and making sure everything was correct. Viktor, Serge and George are true craftsmen! They were so professional and tidy! my job was completed in 2 days and I am thrilled with the results! From now on this is my go to company for all my home improvement needs. So impressed with everyone I encountered!!! Thank you ADH!! I love my kitchen!!!!
